Speaker says Trust Vote today; CM for Wednesday

Ramesh Kumar summons rebels to his Office at 11 am tomorrow

Speaker K.R. Ramesh Kumar in the Assembly this morning.

Bengaluru/ New Delhi, July 22 (UNI&Agencies)- Karnataka Speaker K.R. Ramesh Kumar has summoned rebel lawmakers at 11 am tomorrow at his Office after a request by the ruling Congress-Janata Dal (Secular) Coalition to disqualify them, amid a row over Trust Vote. This move indicates that a Trust Vote may not take place today. No Trust Vote was held last week despite two deadlines on Friday set by Governor Vajubhai Rudabhai Vala.

In a new twist to the political saga, the grand old party (Congress) asserted that the JD(S) was "ready to sacrifice" for the Coalition and they wanted either Siddharamaiah or Dr. G. Parameshwara or D.K. Shivakumar to be the Chief Minister.

Initial reports this morning said that the fate of the fragile Congress-JD(S) Government was likely to be decided on the floor of the Assembly this evening itself as the Speaker has set a deadline of 6 pm today for the Floor Test.

Speaker told news channels in front of his house this morning that the Trust Vote will take place before 6 pm today.

"Rebels will be marked absent if they don't show up," Ramesh Kumar had said. But the Speaker did not mention the 6 pm deadline inside the Assembly.

"In your speeches today, make sure that dignity of Assembly is kept alive. These are time-stalling tactics being used. It harms the image of Assembly," the Speaker told the MLAs.

This development came after the rebel MLAs yesterday bluntly refused to compromise on their stand and CM H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) made an appeal to them to attend the House in an effort to save his 14-month-old Government.

HDK reportedly wants the Trust Vote on Wednesday as the Supreme Court may hear pleas on it tomorrow. The Speaker has reportedly refused to heed the CM's request. Meeting a JD(S)-Congress delegation this morning, the Speaker said that he cannot delay Floor Test at any cost as he had made a promise in the Assembly on Friday itself.

Camaraderie with canines

Give a dog a bad name and hang him is an 18th century English proverb. A similar proverb is he that has an ill name is half-hanged. Further, if a person's reputation has been besmirched, then he will suffer difficulty and hardship. While the vote-mongers in the State serve a real-time illustration of the second proverb stated above, the Mysuru-based canines came dangerously close to be an example of equally appropriate illustration some three years ago, with Mysureans raising their voice against street-bound dogs, calling the city's civic body to get rid of the menace, if not the creatures accused of the menace.

The shelter-less, four-legged species of the heritage city, estimated then to be about 8,000-strong escaped the noose, thanks to the support they got unexpectedly from protagonists of the live 'n' let live principle. The Veterinarians extended their helping hand by resorting to mass scale sterilisation of the dogs, leaving them free after clipping a bit of the ear as proof of action. Given the quiet on the part of the complaining residents of the city, all seems to be well again as a sign of healthy camaraderie between the dogs and their nemesis.

Two features, namely faithfulness and unquestionable attachment to their care-givers in dogs that one comes across in numerous narratives quoting instances that the pets have displayed seem to mock at human beings not granted those virtues. The land's epics too have bestowed recognition to the man's best friend by associating the species with divinity. Their short life span, namely 13 to 15 years, comes in the way of association between the two friends over extended periods.

Man-animal conflict, unarguably, is the creation of Man. If the speechless species could command ability to face the adversity amounting to threat of their survival itself, they would certainly be on the victory stand. However, despite the choking ambience they have been handed down in urban spaces in which the multi-storeyed residential apartments mushrooming on an unprecedented scale don't provide living room even to the pets, thanks to the dog-loving fraternity, the species, marked by more than 150 different breeds, there is hope for their security in days ahead. In this context, the initiative by a Bengaluru-based Canine Psychologist for enabling people to understand dog behaviour is laudable.

When man bites dog, the event makes news raising the question of behaviour of human beings towards animals. On the other hand, when dog bites man, the accusing finger points towards the four-legged species, forgetting the aggressive stand taken by man towards the animal for whatever reason. Camaraderie between the two is the best bet for dogs to live without being threatened for their survival and human beings not to look down upon man's best friend.

Gadkari told the Lok Sabha that in his Chambers he had hung on the wall a quote from former US President John F. Kennedy that "American roads are not good because America is rich, but America is rich because American roads are good." Gadkari introduced the toll system as a Minister in the Shiv-Sena-BJP Government in Maharashtra in the mid-1990s. An MP later quipped that Gadkari got much praise because several MPs, or their families, either had a stake in the toll-tax business or were road contractors.

Luckily, he was fairly healthy although it looks as though he'd been living stray for some time as he was a little underweight and was covered in ticks," he said.

Suggestions to avoid High Beams

Sir,

This has reference to the news item titled 'High Beam Horror' in SOM dated July 19. High beam is a nightmare for all drivers, particularly two-wheeler riders and more particularly for senior citizens (I am 76 and since 10 years I have stopped taking out my car after 6.30 pm, mainly due to this problem) who may have some eyesight or cataract problem.

The following suggestions may be considered and implemented by the authorities concerned:

1. Make it compulsory for all vehicle dealers of two-wheelers and four-wheelers in Mysuru to ensure that the top half of the headlights are covered with black paint before they are brought to the showroom and/or taken for registration.

2. RTOs may cross check this required before registration, if not done, refuse to register the vehicle.

3. With regard to existing vehicles whose headlights are not covered with black paint as required under the law, authorities checking the vehicles may engage a few painters and on the spot ensure that the headlights are painted with black colour and a certain amount, as fixed by the authorities concerned, are paid to the painters.

I hope the above suggestions will be considered seriously and implemented with due diligence and checks and balances. If necessary, rules and regulations on the subject may be modified/ amended and policy decisions are published for information of general public.

More on High Beam Horror

Sir,

Indeed the use of high beam lights by motorists is risky for other road-users (High Beam Horror, SOM dated July 19). Use of high beam is rampant not only on peripheral roads of the city, but also in the heart of the city.

However, it is very difficult to catch such violators as providing proof will be difficult for such violation at busy city centre. As a Traffic Warden, I have experience of seeing very few drivers responding to the instructions to dim the lights. Many drivers do not even have courtesy to dim their vehicle lights when the drivers of the vehicles coming in the opposite direction used dim and dip.

As rightly pointed out in the report, some vehicle users, as if they are blind or partially blind, switch on all possible lights fitted (like halogen bulbs and projectors) to the vehicle and pose danger to other road-users. Giving a punishment of driving against a high beam light continuously for at least 10 min to such violators, instead of asking to pay a fine of a hundred rupees (as per pre-revised rates), which they can easily pay and escape from the scene, might reduce this dangerous menace, and make them understand the gravity of their violation. Then only they can realise the problems of using high beam lights.

City's solar Start-Up catches PM Modi's attention

Mysuru, July 22 (BCT)- "Never dream of becoming something, if you dream, dream of doing something." These words from Prime Minister Narendra Modi have been the foundation for India's ambitious start-up campaign — Start-Up India, Stand-Up India.

Modi has won over entrepreneurs with this initiative and steps that made starting up in the country easier. He took a slew of policy and Budget initiatives to build a strong, conducive, growth-oriented environment for Indian start-ups and thereby help generate lakhs of job opportunities. Now in his second term at Office, India's start-up ecosystem has boomed and most of that growth has been in metros and big cities.

But far from the metros, a new breed of start-ups is solving 'real India' problems. These businesses are bringing innovation to every sector and creating solutions to the problems the country faces. Take HGSOLTEC Pvt .Ltd., a Mysuru-based innovative Solar Start-Up as an example. It has been recognised as one among the top 400 promising start-ups in India.

K. Gururaj and M.L. Harsha of HGSOLTEC had an opportunity to interact with PM Modi and the meet was facilitated by Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha. The company's two product design has won the India Design Mark Award.

It is a solar start-up with four patented innovations incorporated in their two product designs. It is the first DIPP (Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion) recognised innovative solar start-up in Mysuru. It works on conservation of water and electricity in day-to-day life of common man. With out-of-the-box thinking, the company invented new-generation electric and solar geysers that can save power and water.

Explaining their product to Modi, Harsha and Gururaj told him that geysers at present use 130-year-old principle wherein 50 percent of energy is wasted to reheat water. With the invention of new concept, this has been eliminated and the 'Smart Electric Geyser' developed by HGSOLTEC saves 50 percent electricity and has many user-friendly features. Each geyser can save 365 units of electricity per year and can slash 30 percent of electricity bills in each home.

Gururaj Harsha

The company has invented solar geysers which give instant hot water thereby eliminating the wastage of cold water which happens in present day solar water heaters. Through this new technology, each user can save approximately 4,000 litres of water every year.

Modi gave a patient ear to the solar and water saving idea and appreciated the initiative that is coming from Mysuru, a Tier-II city. "Since PM always insisted on water conservation, these new products occupy much relevance in future. We have submitted our production and financial plans and requested the PM to speed up financial approvals under Start-Up India," Harsha told Star of Mysore.

"We invented and worked on these product concepts since the last 7 years. The first patent was granted in 2013 and subsequent patents on 3 different concepts in 2017. The concept is to make solar energy usage for water heating, affordable and sustainable and to build a multi-utility product," he explained.

Harsha said they will set up a world-class geyser manufacturing plant in Mysuru and expect to export it to 120 countries. "We are expecting soft loans from the Department of Science and Technology to construct our factory and we hope to start production after securing mandatory approvals in another 8 months," he said.

Miscreant cons elderly woman in K.R. Hospital

Escapes with jewellery and cash

Mysuru, July 22 (SBD&KS)- Despite Devaraja Police conducting orientation session recently for nearly 100 Security Guards on how to control violent incidents, attacks by public and avert other untoward incidents that may occur at the Hospital premises, an incident of miscreant cheating an elderly lady and decamping with her jewellery and cash at K.R. Hospital on July 12, has come to light lately.

The elderly woman, who lost her valuables, is 65-year-old Puttamma, a resident of Gangarahosahalli in H.D. Kote taluk.

On July 12, Puttamma had come to K.R. Hospital to undergo diabetes test during which a 40-year-old unidentified man introduced himself to her and told her that he will get her financial aid from the Government and took her towards J.K. Grounds.

He then told Puttamma to remove the jewellery she was wearing and keep it in her purse as the officials would not sanction the financial aid if they see her wearing gold ornaments.

After Puttamma removed her 38 grams gold chain and eight grams earrings and kept them in the purse along with Rs.1,100 cash, the miscreant told her that she cannot take the purse inside as it would be checked and asked Puttamma to give him the purse and collect it later.

The miscreant, after receiving the purse from Puttamma, allegedly made her unconscious and fled from the spot.

Puttamma, who woke up after sometime, searched for the unidentified man but in vain.

She then returned to her village and narrated the incident to her family members following which a complaint was lodged at Devaraja Police Station after a few days of the incident.

Devaraja Police, who have registered a case in this regard, are investigating.

Elderly persons targeted: It looks like there is a gang of miscreants who target elderly persons that too women coming from rural areas for health check-up to K.R. Hospital.

They befriend the patient and their caretakers and then cheat them. There are women too involved in this racket.

One of the common modus operandi by the miscreant is they tell that he/she has found a purse and tell the person who is targeted that they would share the money inside the purse and then take the person where there is less movement of people. When the miscreant and the person reaches the spot, another person claiming to be the owner of the purse comes to the spot and charges the person of stealing the purse.

When the person denies of stealing the purse, the miscreants then ask her (targeted person) to remove her mangalasutra and place it in a piece of cloth and ask her to swear and in the process make away with the gold mangalasutra. In most of the cases, miscreants place fake gold jewellery in a piece of cloth, exchange the same with genuine gold ornaments and hand over the fake ones to the people they had targeted.

About four months ago, Devaraja Police had arrested a person on charges of cheating elderly women coming to K.R. Hospital and had recovered 15 gold chains from him. Despite this, miscreants have continued to cheat elderly women and the public, despite knowing such incidents, fall prey to such miscreants.

Increasing debts: Farmers commit suicide in Maddur

Maddur, July 22 (KS)- In separate incidents, two farmers, unable to repay the loans they had taken to grow crops, committed suicide by consuming poison at Tubinakere and Rajegowdanadoddi in the taluk. In the first incident, Krishnegowda, who owns 3.5 acre land, had taken a loan of Rs.2 lakh from a Co-operative Society, Rs.1.5 lakh from a Bank and Rs.4 lakh from private financiers to grow crops in his land.

As rains failed and the crops started withering, Krishnegowda suffered huge losses and the financiers were allegedly pestering him to return their loan amount.

Depressed over this, Krishnegowda had consumed poison near his land and the villagers had rushed him to the District Hospital, where he breathed his last. He leaves behind his wife, four daughters and a son. A case has been registered at Kesthur Police Station.

Krishnegowda

Basavaraju

In the second incident, Basavaraju, who owns a three acre agricultural land, had taken Rs.1 lakh loan from a Bank, Rs.1.5 lakh from a Co-operative Society, Rs.1 lakh from various Self-Help Groups and over Rs.3 lakh from private financiers to grow sugarcane and other crops. As the rains failed, Basavaraju too suffered losses.

Unable to withstand the pressure from financiers, Basavaraju had consumed poison and was lying near his land. He was rushed to a hospital in Mysuru, where he breathed his last yesterday. A case has been registered at Maddur Police Station.

Mysuru, July 22 (SBD&KS)- A pedestrian was killed on-the-spot when an unidentified vehicle rammed into him on Mysuru-Hunsur Main Road here on Friday night. The deceased is Kantharaju (40), a resident of Hootagalli in city.

Human-animal conflict: MLA holds discussion with Forest officials

Kollegal, July 22 (Nagendra &US)- MLA Narendra and DCF Yedukondalu participated in a meeting held here yesterday to discuss on steps to be taken to prevent human-animal conflicts and prevention of wild animals straying and spoiling agricultural land of farmers destroying standing crops.

Narendra discussed at length with Forest officials regarding steps taken to prevent death of farmers owing to wild animals attack and compensation to be paid for destruction of crops.

Yedukondalu recalled that three persons had been killed in elephant attacks at Nagamale and Kombadikki Thukere and added that the deceased will be compensated with Rs.5 lakh each.

He said that to prevent straying of wild animals to cultivated land, solar alarms would be installed. He added that steps would be taken to construct a road from Thukere to M.M. Hills.

Narendra said that a conclusion has been drawn that the three persons killed in Mahadeshwara forest region were not by the same wild elephant.

He further said that the construction of a moat around cultivated land and installation of solar alarms would be a great relief for farmers against wild animal attacks.

Ex-servicemen, woman farmer honoured by women's outfit

Mysuru, July 22 (RKB&BCT)- The 10th anniversary celebrations of Arivina Mane Mahila Balaga, a women's organisation, was marked by the felicitation of three ex-servicemen and a woman farmer in city yesterday. The event was organised at Puttaraja Gavai Stadium in J.P. Nagar here.

Ex-servicemen Sepoy L. Siddappaji, Havildar Mechanda G. Chittiappa, Naik M.G. Hiriyanna and progressive woman farmer Sunitha Andani from Sathegala village in Kollegal were felicitated. The celebrations were organised a few days ahead of Kargil Vijay Diwas, which will be observed on July 26 and aptly, the theme of celebrations was 'Jai Jawan, Jai Kisan.'

Appreciating the initiative of Arivina Mane Mahila Balaga of felicitating farmers and soldiers, former MLC Prof. K.R. Mallikarjunappa said that only when social organisations hold such events and felicitate those who work selflessly for the society, a society can become strong and influence more people to do service. This way, a robust society can be built, he said.

Retired Senior Non-Commissioned Officer of Indian Air Force (IAF) and Founder-President of VeKare Ex-Servicemen Trust Mandetira N. Subramani said that if soldiers get recognised on National Days, it is very rare for the farmers to get recognised. Arivina Mane Mahila Balaga has taken an appreciable initiative of felicitating both of them.

Without people from defence and agriculture sectors, security at the borders is an impossible task. He said that youths join the defence forces at a young age of 17 and 22 years, live in hostile conditions and sacrifice their prime youth without bothering about anything but the security of the country, he said and added that likewise, farmers engage in food production to feed their countrymen against all odds.

Urging the audience to encourage their children to join the defence forces, Subramani said even girls can go on to be fighter pilots. Defence will not only provide them with a career option but also enable them to lead a disciplined life, he added.

Former Mayor B.L. Bhyrappa presided over the event. Lecturer and Manager of N.M.P. Academy Dr. C. Thejovathi, Corporator Sharadamma Eshwar, President of Arivina Mane Mahila Balaga Dhanya Sathyendramurthy and others were present on the occasion.

From Rishi Kanva Ashrama to a hub for drunken youth

Balamuri's Bane

By Vinay Karekura

Srirangapatna, July 22- Every year during monsoon, certain places in and around Mysuru attain extra glory due to gushing of rainwater and also due to water release from reservoirs. They attract tourists in hordes. Among the places that are crowd-puller are Balamuri and Edamuri near Srirangapatna.

Balamuri is a popular picnic spot where tourists and local people go to spend time with their family and friends. It is a scenic and artificial waterfall created because of the construction of a concrete barrier across the flowing Cauvery. When water is released from the Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam, it forms a beautiful sight.

When water is released, it comes at a great force at Balamuri and tourists who are on the barrier are dragged downstream that is full of sharp rocks and boulders. If the beauty of waterfalls is at one side, on the other side is the deadly nature of the Balamuri Falls. Compounding the problem is the lack of basic facilities and cleanliness.

More than 12 persons have drowned at Balamuri and Edamuri between January and June this year. In the past 14 years (2006 to 2019 till June), a total of 106 persons have lost their lives.

CROSSING THE LIMIT: A youth seen dangerously attempting to cross the crest gates at Balamuri from where thousands of cusecs of water that gushes out from Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam enters Balamuri.

LEGEND OF KANVA ASHRAMA

Legend says that Rishi Kanva used to meditate on the banks of River Cauvery and he used to walk on the banks and reach Balamuri to pray under a Jamun tree that had a raised platform around it. Local villagers said that annually, the Jamun tree bore only one fruit and that fruit was only visible to Kanva Rishi.

Kanva Rishi had an Ashrama at Balamuri premises and the place was considered holy. Realising the importance of the place, Rashtrakutas of Manyakheda had established another Ashrama at Balamuri that resembled the original Kanva Ashrama, says legends.

PILGRIMAGE CENTRE

As ages passed, a temple was built at the sacred place and it became a pilgrimage centre. Balamuri and Sri Venugopalaswamy Temple at Hale Kannambadi village were must visits to the pilgrims. After Sri Venugopalaswamy Temple submerged under the waters of KRS (now the Khoday Foundation has translocated and rebuilt the temple at Hosa Kannambadi village), Balamuri gained importance. After water started being released from the KRS, the spot began attracting tourists in large numbers.

A PLACE FOR DRINKING AND MERRY-MAKING

But unfortunately, such a place of historical significance has now become a place for anti-social elements and youths, in a drunken state, spoil the sanctity of the place. On the outer boundaries of Balamuri, there are many shacks that sell toddy or liquor accompanied with spicy dishes made from fried freshwater fish and crabs.

The entire Balamuri premises and surroundings have a lot of Eachalu Mara (palm tree or toddy trees) and locals make money by tapping toddy and selling it by the road sides. Many shacks selling toddy dot the roads leading to Balamuri from Mysuru and Bengaluru. Youths, especially from colleges in Mysuru and Mandya, come here to drink and have fun.

WALKING ON THE HORSE-SHOE-SHAPED BARRIER

Some youths, in an inebriated state, to impress their friends or for a selfie, walk dangerously over the horse-shoe-shaped barrier. Usually due to continuous release of water, the barrier is slippery. One wrong step, adventurers are dragged downstream that is full of sharp rocks and boulders. The increased death rate at Balamuri is a testimony to the danger associated with walking along the barrier.

Despite the Balamuri Grama Panchayat and the KRS Police collaborating to install gates and warning boards at the entrance of Balamuri Falls, youths climb the gate and enter the waters. They ignore the warnings and end up losing their lives.

A DANGEROUS MOVE

Sadly, when the statistics of the people losing their lives is examined, all of them are aged between 18 and 35 years of age. Certain youths enter the place where water gushes out from the KRS Dam at Balamuri and dangerously try to cross the gates. In the process, some youths lose balance and slip into the water.

Villagers say that alcohol must be completely banned in the Balamuri surroundings and there must be at least dawn-to-dusk Police security at the gates to prevent the entry of tourists. Cases must be booked against violators and only this will act as a deterrent.

PRECARIOUS: A youth walks on the horse-shoe-shaped waterfall at Balamuri.

A favourite place for Dr. Rajkumar

Thespian Dr. Rajkumar's favourite place for film-shooting was Balamuri. When he was at the height of acting in Kannada cinemas, often, villagers used to see film crew vehicles parked on the road sides near Balamuri.

The scenic place has been vividly captured in many Rajkumar movies including Hosabelaku and Devatha Manushya.

Local villagers say that Dr. Rajkumar had financially helped to develop Balamuri. Not only this, he also had urged his fellow stars to shoot at Balamuri so that it can contribute for the overall development of the site that has a lot of historical value.

Vaastu-Feng Shui & Bio-energetics

In tune with Earth forces

Avoid land, which is too wet, to the extent that the place is prone to getting waterlogged. On the other hand, also avoid land which is too dry to the extent that vegetation getting starved of water and burnt by the Sun. In other words, it must be balanced with regard to the quality of the soil.

By listening to the earth, we become attuned to the energy of the universe, for this energy is manifested in the air as wind, on the earth as water and land, and in the sky as stars. The earth is an entity animated by energy. Energy flows in it, through it, and around it.

Energy in flat open spaces is different from energy in mountainous areas. Similarly, energy in a valley is different from energy on a plateau. This means that each type of a land-form has a specific type of energy associated with it.

The most practical advice for plot selection is based on the study of multiple factors like direction of the site, type of soil on the site and the slope of the plot.

Designing buildings is an art and for the occupants within a building, the building is not just a protection from the fury of nature but is perceived to be a safe zone. The strength of the building primarily rests on the quality of construction, materials and most importantly the soil on which it is built.

Buildings failing due to natural calamities are something which cannot be prevented. However, by adapting certain ancient principles, one can make them resistant to such disasters to a large extent.

Apart from design, the materials used for construction do play a vital role especially in seismic-prone zones to avoid loss of life. Hence building design integrated with Feng Shui and Vastu do work effectively in creating more harmonious structures.

A shape of the plot is quite important in ensuring proper flow of energy both in Vastu and in Feng Shui. An irregular plot can affect the house, which is constructed on it.

In a city where locating and buying a plot to fit one's budget is a nightmare, we generally land up settling for a plot of any shape without looking into its cause and effect.

Buildings surviving strong earthquakes is quite rare. However, ensuring proper care during designing could make the building resistive to a certain extent to natural forces.

• Design structures with symmetrical dimensions and uniform loading with no stress concentrations.

• Examine quality of soil and sub soil, ensure it is free from deposits which weaken structures.

Avoid land, which is too wet, to the extent that the place is prone to getting waterlogged. On the other hand, also avoid land which is too dry to the extent that vegetation getting starved of water and burnt by the Sun. In other words, it must be balanced with regard to the quality of the soil.

Check the quality of the soil by looking at the colour, soil with shades of red or yellow tinge are considered good and it should not be grayish and extremely loosely packed.

Remove the top soil and check the smell of the soil beneath, if it smells decomposed it's a bad plot, the soil should smell sweet and this constitutes a good plot.

Lands which are located at dead ends, especially if the plot itself stands at the very end of the road are considered bad. Theoretically, the land faces a road coming straight at it, and symbolically represents the inmates of the house being put in a tight corner.

Bangalore Brothers — Hariharan and Ashok — present vocal concert at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha

Bangalore Brothers — M.B. Hariharan and S. Ashok — presenting a vocal concert at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha in city recently. They are accompanied by Bangalore V. Praveen on mridanga, G.S. Ramanujam on ghata and B.K. Raghu on violin.

By Dr. Padmavathi Narasimhan

Bangalore Brothers — M.B. Hariharan and S. Ashok — gave a vocal concert at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha on the 16th of this month. They were accompanied by B.K. Raghu on violin, Bangalore V. Praveen on mridanga and G.S. Ramanujam on ghata.

Though Hariharan and Ashok are called brothers, they are friends. While it is easy for brothers to practice together, being in the same house and in the same music atmosphere and under the same Guru, the duo should be appreciated for their synchronisation and understanding, though not from the same family. Their interest in learning percussion instruments (They have learnt mridanga from senior mridangist Sudheendra and Hariharan has learnt kanjira too) has given them an expert hold on laya.

'Inta Chalamu' varna in Begade set a lively pace for the concert. Deekshitar's 'Swaminatha Paripalayaashumaam' was decorated with swaras for the pallavi.

Kalyani alapana was laced with commendable sancharas. 'Daya Mado Ranga' by Purandara Dasaru was preceded by a detailed ugaboga expanded beautifully by Ashok — 'Aaneyu Karedare Aadimoola Bandante,' wherein he addressed The Supreme in many appealing ways. Swarakalpana to the pallavi portion was breezy.

Kedaragowla rarely chosen as the main item was taken up for detailed rendition. Hariharan sketched through the raga. The composition 'Saraguna Paalimpa' by Poochi Srinivasa Iyengar was well-rendered.

Detailed delineation of Ranjani was shared by both and was woven with graceful sancharas. Raghu's interpretation of the raga on violin was very melodious. Nowhere was found an unwanted note in his playing throughout. Taana was rhythmic with Praveen's added percussion support. The lyrics of the pallavi was on the father of Karnatak music Purandaradasaru — 'Purandara Gurum Vande Daasashreshtam Dayaanidhim Sadaa Namaste - Daasavarenya' in adi tala, which was beautifully structured. The pallavi rendition was balanced, with no overdoing. They knitted the swaras in ragamalika in Mohana, Hindola, Revati and Kanada. Raghu replied with Abheri and Kapi.

A very appreciative factor in the concert was their love for Kannada, which was more evident in the unusual 'Mundige' that was not only sung with clarity in diction but also the essence of the composition explained neatly by Ashok.

The duo's love for percussion was shown in two taniyavartanams offered for the percussionists.

'Anjaneyam sadaa Bhaavayaami,' notu swara by Muthiah Bhagavatar appealed to the audience. It is said when someone asked Bhagavatar if he could compose something that would appeal to westerners, he composed the English notes made famous by Madhurai Mani Iyer. The concert concluded with a tillana.

'A true servant of society is one who derives joy from small services'

Commissioner of Textile Development Dr. M.R. Ravi (seated third from left) seen at the installation ceremony of the new team of Rotary Club of Heritage Mysore led by President Rtn. Talakad Manjunath, at a private hotel in city yesterday along with former District Governor Rtn. K.A. Kuriachhan, Rotary District Governor Rtn. Joseph Mathew, Assistant Governor Rtn. Dr. B.M. Subraya, Rtn. K. Manjunath, Rtn. Dr. K. Murugesh, Rtn. P. Surendra, Rtn. G.M. Suresh and other office-bearers of the Club.

Mysuru, July 22 (MK&NNN)- It is those who derive great joy in serving the society in many little ways, a true servant of the people, said Commissioner of Textile Development and Director of Handlooms and Textiles Dr. M.R. Ravi.

He was speaking at the installation ceremony of the new team of Rotary Heritage Club of Mysore at a private hotel in Hebbal Industrial Area here yesterday and said that if people have a good heart then good work will always follow and the Rotary organisation has continued to do this kind of yeoman service.

The society has given us enough and likewise it expects a lot from us. But before this, one must understand the concept and boundaries of social service. Through service one can address the problems of the society. However, service must always be combined with passion and commitment. Today there are a lot of people involved in social service but very few are there who do it selflessly, he said.

There is something unique about the name Heritage itself, because there are many cities in the country with a cultural, traditional and a background of heritage but Mysuru is the only city that has a combination of all these together, he said.

Rotary Heritage has taken up many social service projects and the new team of 2019-20 headed by Rtn. Talakad Manjunath will also continue to follow this tradition, he hoped.

The President has many challenges before him and he has to take the whole team with him to achieve the many aims and objectives he has planned for the year. Only if one has the spirit of patience and sacrifice, is social service possible. Today there are people who are so selfish that they think only of their immediate family and their homes, said Dr. Ravi.

Just as the digital era is bridging nations together, Rotary, as an international organisation, is helping communities come together throughout the world by taking everyone into confidence.

However, it is sad that technology is destroying relationships. The day has arrived where to sit with our own children for a meal at the dining table we have to send messages on the mobile phone, he regretted.

The members of Rotary Heritage Club donating cows is a very laudable initiative. Such useful donations help one build lives and this is the true meaning of service to the society, he said.

Awareness about cleanliness 70 years later: After Prime Minister Narendra Modi came to power in 2014, he created awareness about cleanliness (Swachhata) among the people of the country. Since he took a tough stand on swachhata, the awareness is being created right from villages to towns and cities. But it is a sad reflection that none of the earlier Governments concentrated on cleanliness which shows the functioning style of the Governments of the past, he said.

No discipline in the society: We as a society are still a people who want to grab everything that is available. If we observe this, we realise that we have not yet matured as a disciplined society. This also means the present day youth do not have the tolerance to learn discipline. Everyone must understand that there is a debt he owes to the society and as long as one does not realise it, there will be indiscipline in the society and this is what everyone needs to understand. Even if one does not do good work, at least one must refrain doing bad to the society, advised Dr. Ravi.

The outgoing President (2018-19) Rtn. Shivarudrappa handed over the charge to the incoming President (2019-20) Rtn. Talakad Manjunath in the presence of Past District Governor K.A. Kuriachhan (Kurian) who installed the new team.

Rotary District Governor (Rotary International District 3181) Rtn. Joseph Mathew, Assistant Governor Dr. B.M. Subraya, Rtn. K. Manjunath, Rtn. Dr. K. Murugesh, Immediate Past Secretary Rtn. P. Surendra, Rtn G. M. Suresh and others were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Nosegay

Meaning: A small bunch of flowers: posy
Origin: Nosegay is a homegrown word — that is, it originated in English. 15th-century Middle English speakers joined nose (which meant then what it does today) with gay (which, at the time, meant "ornament"). That makes nosegay an appropriate term for a bunch of flowers, which is indeed an ornament that appeals to the nose. Today, the word nosegay is especially common in the bridal business, where it usually refers to a specific type of bouquet: a round, tight bunch of flowers as opposed to a cascading bouquet or other type of arrangement. Occasionally, the word is used metaphorically for things that somehow resemble a bouquet. For example, a compact collection of enjoyably lighthearted short stories might be called "a nosegay of a book."
Example: "On arrival, the Queen was presented with her traditional nosegay of fresh spring flowers..." —Robert Hardman, The Daily Mail (London), 19 Apr. 2019. "Many of the boys also were ordering nosegays or wrist corsages for their dates. 'I just had a group of three boys coming in with pictures on their phones of the girls' dresses,' [Megan] Mitchell said several days before the prom. The boys want the flowers to match the colour of the dresses." —Kimberly Fornek, The Chicago Tribune, 6 May 2019.

THE ODD WORD

Nainsook

A fine, soft cotton fabric, originally made in the Indian subcontinent

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Bang on about

Meaning: Talk repetitively and boringly about something.

Origin: The term 'bang on' has been used to mean either 'exactly on', that is, physically close to, or 'exactly right'. Those two meaning are exemplified here, respectively: An advertisement in Punch April 1936: "Quiet garden square near Hyde Park. Real hot water. Bang on Tubes." ('Bang on Tubes' means 'very close to an Underground station'. 'Real hot water' - who knows? Better than imaginary hot water I suppose.) John Hunt and Alan Pringle Service Slang, 1943: "Bang on, bomber slang for 'O.K.' or 'Everything's all right'."
These derive from an earlier American usage of simply 'bang', meaning 'exactly'. 'Bang on about' has a different meaning though and doesn't appear to be related to either of the above. It is a British coinage. The Economist, October 1979: "Mr. Patrick Jenkin - Social Services - In cabinet tries hard but is inclined to bang on a bit."
Julie Burchill, Sex & Sensibility, 1990: "This cry was taken up by the alt coms [alternative comedians] - Benny and Jenny and Lenny and Dawn - who would bang on about Reagan being an actor."
